RVP Message

Cara Hutchings, AIS Region 2 RVP

As I started to write my last RVP message, I again looked back at the past. Although this time, I just looked at my own RVP messages. They all had a sense of hope; that there is a future for Region 2 and its affiliates. And as I end my leadership, I still have that sense of hope. I feel we are stronger than when I first took over, we have some new people in positions of leadership, and we have an Assistant RVP who is willing to be the RVP. While membership is down, we seem to be retaining people who are willing to be a bit more active.

There is still plenty to do. We need a new Assistant RVP, the archives need to be more streamlined, the By Laws need to be gone over and updated, etc. But there is hope. We are more willing to have in-person shows and sales, we're having our first in-person and Zoom hybrid Regional Fall meeting in five years. We've gotten help from AIS to get here, and we will need more help in the future.

We've got hope. As I look at my weed-filled garden, due to sickness and surgeries, I have hope that it will start looking better this fall, as I am able to move around the garden a lot better. We have hope that Region 2 will continue to be relevant and grow in the 21st century. We have hope that we will continue to be an active part of AIS and the world of iris.

Thank you for a never-a-dull-moment three years, I wouldn't trade them for anything!

Cara Hutchings

Region 2 Bi-Monthly Zoom Meetings

What a year it has been!

As I expect many readers will have experienced, the iris season was an unusual one this year in my garden. A cold, wet spring derailed many of the earliest blooms, but the iris did their best, and pushed on into warmer, brighter days that brought brilliant color. Despite the irregularity and oscillations of water and sunlight, the irises rose to the occasion to put on a phenomenal showing spread across several species and many cultivars. (And, although the season is mostly winding to a close, there are still some jubilant Iris x norisii stretching out to the bees with their freckled petals.) Still, even if the blooms have faded for the year, there is always more to do; there are seed pods to collect and sort, irises to lift and divide, notes to be taken, and beds to be prepared for next year.

There is also more to be done in Region 2! The Region 2 annual general meeting will be hosted by CHIS on Saturday, October 18th. Our guest speaker will be Howie Dash, a prolific hybridizer of tall bearded, arilbred, and Louisiana irises. Please find the registration form on page 6, hotel information on page 7, and a listing of irises for the silent auction—donated by Howie Dash—on pages 8 and 9.

Region 2 is also looking for a new Assistant Regional Vice President! If you are interested in the position, please see page 10. We are also still looking for a few volunteers to fill other positions in the region; please see page 14 for more details.

This has clearly been a busy year for our affiliates, as well, with lots of news and pictures to share beginning on page 15! ONIS and GRIS both had successful shows and sales, and Kathryn Mohr of CHIS shares some thoughts on the importance of recordkeeping.

Last, but certainly not least, we have articles from some of our members who were fortunate enough to attend iris conventions this year! Cara Hutchings (RVP, GRIS) has provided an overview of the AIS national convention in Billings, Montana on page 21. Alex Solla (GRIS) traveled to Iowa to attend the joint meeting of the Society for Siberian Irises and the Species Iris Group of North America (SIGNA), and brought back many stories, pictures, and some hands-on hybridizing experience beginning on page 23.

As I leave you to explore the shared world of irises, I once again ask a favor; if you have stories or images to share, please submit them! Region 2 grows through our shared collaboration and love for this beautiful genus of flowers.

Wishing everyone a beautiful and restorative garden!

THE YEAR IN REVIEW

During the period August 1, 2024 – July 31, 2025, the Region 2 accredited judges and one apprentice judge collectively earned 11 hours of credit for attending or presenting in-garden, classroom, or showbench judges training sessions held within the region. These individuals also collectively earned 18 credit hours for attending AIS Zoom Meeting classroom course sessions which aired from the states of Nebraska and Texas.

One in-garden judges training session was offered within Region 2 during the past year. We thank Master Judge Kate Brewitt for presenting a one-hour course on Siberian Irises in the beautiful Laurin-Brewitt garden setting located in Aurora, Ontario, Canada.

Annette Kuhn is now eligible for appointment as an accredited American Iris Society Garden / Exhibition Judge. We thank Master Judges David Baehre and Joanne Bassett for working with Annette Kuhn this Spring to help her complete the apprentice judge requirements. David and

Joanne each provided Annette with four hours of credit on judging various types of irises in the garden setting as well as at the showbench site.

Janette Smith has decided to retire as an American Iris Society Master Judge. We cannot thank her enough for serving as a judge within Region 2 for the past 19 years. Janette was an active member of the former Central New York Iris Society for many years. She grows many types of bearded and beardless irises in a lovely rural garden setting in upstate New York.

Looking for Volunteers

Volunteers are fundamental to the success of our region. They are what makes the region 'tick'. When you volunteer you meet new people. You can also put an existing skill to effective use, or you might decide to learn a new one. Additionally, you could find out more about the AIS organization that you joined, and more about irises and the people who grow and hybridize them.

If you are interested in volunteering, we are currently looking for an Awards & Exhibitions Chairperson. Inquiries can be made with Cara Hutchings, our RVP (email address on page 2).

Awards and Exhibitions Chairperson – This individual shall oversee the rotation of the regional show awards plus arrange for the engraving of award trophies and/or the printing of award certificates for presentation at the fall annual general meeting. The chair also provides basic guidelines to any affiliate that is staging a show for the first time. Being an AIS Judge is helpful but not required.

Support and training will be provided by the Board of Directors.

Capital-Hudson Iris Society (CHIS)

The Capital-Hudson Iris Society is part of The Garden Alliance (Capital Area Garden Societies). They meet at the Cornell Cooperative Extension of Albany County, 24 Martin Road, Voorheesville, NY. Meetings are at 10 am unless noted otherwise and usually include a guest speaker and a “dish-to-pass” luncheon. All meetings are open free to the public. Why not join us and consider becoming a member.

Record Keeping

By Kathryn Mohr, CHIS President (from 'Shades of Green' - August 2025)

Maps, labels and garden journals are all valuable tools for tracking successes and failures, plant ID and effects of weather/climate. My journals date back to 1995. I record yearly garden maps, plant purchases, bloom times, plans for future changes and lists of plants to donate to society sales. Lists of who I've given plants to are important; I've used those to recover special plants that later died in my garden.

There are quite a few “rare” irises in the garden.

The Historic Iris Preservation Society (HIPS) has a program called Guardian Gardens (GG).

The GG program rescues irises on the brink of extinction, distributes them to experienced growers who nurture and increase them, distribute them to other GG growers and eventually to HIPS members and the public. As a GG participant it's crucial for me to have an accurate ID before I share out the iris. While the plant is in bloom I label each fan with its name, using vinyl blinds cut into discs. A six-inch piece of galvanized steel wire is threaded through a hole in the disc, then the wire is pushed through the iris leaf and secured. A 28-gauge steel wire is stiff enough to push through the leaf without damaging it too much.

What We Did in 2025

The Greater Rochester Iris Society has had a busy year, having our first show in 6 years and building our membership these past few years.

March started out with a bang, I gave a talk on how to present your iris for the show bench, since most of our members have never been in a show. There was a feeling of excitement, knowing we were going to have our first show since the pandemic!

April had Wendy Roller giving a talk on beardless iris; the pictures were amazing, and the sheer color and variety of iris captured our attention. I also gave a quick review of what positions were needed at the show, and we were all set for the big event.

The day of the show arrived, the Sunday of Memorial Day weekend, and what a day! Almost everyone in the Society came and gave it their all. We had a wonderful showing of median iris and there were even some Siberian irises in bloom! The Tall bearded section, which usually takes up more than half the show bench, only had three entries, due to the unusual spring weather we had. Everyone worked their job and had a great time! A special acknowledge goes out to the entire Roller family, for all their help and the great entries they presented.

Greater Rochester Iris Society (GRIS) – continued

In June, we had an opportunity to present our society at the annual Master Gardeners' sale. We had quite a good response to our display, and had quite a few people come to our sale, with our flyer promoting a free rhizome. We also had a raffle and had quite a number of people come to the sale for their free named rhizome.

*Nate, Wendy, and Cara at the Monroe County Master Gardeners' sale
© Cara Hutchings*

Our sale came next, during the second weekend of August. We had gotten iris from 2 sources, with lots of newer and older varieties available, besides what we harvested in our gardens. It was steady both days, although with the hot weather, we did close early, people were not coming out of their air-conditioned homes. We made a tidy profit, to help with our projects throughout the year.

We're having a meeting in September, which will be our annual picnic at a member's home. We will also be having a speaker give us an introduction to microgreens. I for one am looking forward to it.

Our last meeting of the year, October 14th, will be a presentation on bluebirds. What do bluebirds have to do with iris? Not much, but we are enjoying having speakers present us with other aspects of outdoor gardening, not just iris. We always have discussions on what to do with your iris at each meeting, but then we also learn something new.

What We Did in 2025

Our season started in February with 'Get The Jump On Spring' at the TBG. After a four-year absence, it was wonderful to reconnect with our gardening friends at this one-day horticultural open house. There were over 30 plant and garden-related vendors and exhibitors which included local horticultural societies, garden clubs, and environmental organizations. Activities included free demonstrations, Master Gardener advice clinics, a seed swap, and, new this year, a houseplant swap.

In March ONIS had a booth at the Evergreen Brick Works Seedy Weekend, a two-day affair with gardening workshops, seed exchanges, and talks given by horticultural experts. Here we sold potted iris rhizomes, seeds and answered the public's questions about growing irises.

Mother Nature sure had us guessing about what to expect for our June 1st show. May temperatures would soar into the upper twenties (low eighties in Fahrenheit), causing blooms to fade within a day, then they would drop to almost freezing, turning blooms to mush. And, to add to the mix, there was lots of rain!

In the end, five exhibitors entered 44 bloom stalks in a variety of classes: everything from SDBs to Siberian with the majority being MTBs and IBs.

It was a highly successful day with Terry Laurin, our president, receiving the Region 2 Magdalen Award for the highest placed median with IB 'Witty' (pictured left). Terry also earned the AIS Silver Medal for having the most first place specimens, while Ilona Shtepan was awarded the AIS Bronze Medal for the second highest number of first place specimens.

Our July online rhizome sale continues to be a popular event. In the end, after digging in temperatures ranging between 30°C and 36°C (86°F to 95°F), we shipped over 200 rhizomes to both new and returning customers. No sooner had we shipped the last order then it was time for our in-person rhizome auction and sale at the TBG. Many of our 'regulars' returned, along with many new faces, making it the best auction and sale ever! Thomas Johnson of Mid-America Garden had provided us with an excellent selection of 2025 iris introductions hybridized by Paul Black, Lynda Miller and himself.

This resulted in fierce bidding as everyone sought to get one, or two, for their garden.

Our year will close with our annual meeting in October or November.

ONIS Donates to the Nature Conservancy of Canada

China Cove is a 29-hectare property (71.5 acres) on the Saugeen (Bruce) Peninsula in Ontario where the dwarf lake iris grows amongst other threatened species of plants and animals including Hill's thistle, and the midland painted turtle. However, the property is under threat, having been divided into seven building lots ready for development. The Nature Conservancy of Canada (NCC) was looking for donations to help them protect and care for this area.

Since part of the American Iris Society's (AIS) vision statement is "to support the conservation and protection of all irises, including existing wild and cultivated species."

the ONIS board felt this project was worthy of our support. To that end, ONIS donated to NCC in support of their efforts to protect this valuable tract of land.

Big Sky Country - Convention Bound!

By Cara Hutchings, RVP for AIS Region 2

Last year, my husband and I were able to attend the AIS National Convention because it was later in the year, along with the Japanese Iris Convention. Being a florist, and having the spring be our busiest times, it's hard to get away then. Since the convention was in June, we thought we had a shot at it. And we did! It was a wonderful convention; we had such a great time that we wanted to go again.

This year, it was going to be in the beginning of June, so we thought that might be possible, too. But Montana is not a very well populated state, and air transportation is not always the most convenient. Being from New York, we're used to flights to and from all over the world. So we decided to drive. It would take us three days to get there, and three days back. We would make a vacation of it, see some sites along the way, etc.

And off we went! The trip to Montana was amazing! Seeing the country go from so hilly to flat, seeing the Canadian forest fires' smoke spread across the North Dakota plains, and then getting into the ND badlands!

We got to the convention hotel early, as we had friends who lived in Billings to visit. They took us to Cody, Wyoming and to Yellowstone Park. Those days could take another article, but I'm here to tell you about the convention.

The first day was the day for all the iris societies to have a meeting or presentation. I stopped in on a few of them, such as the Novelty Iris Society and the Reblooming Iris Society. They were very interesting talks; I would have liked to have gotten to more. The welcome banquet was that night, with a wonderful talk from Mike Sutton, a hybridizer and the father of a hybridizer, on space age iris.

The next day was the first of 3 days of bus tours. Our bus went to the DanWalt Gardens first, a beautiful event venue that had two full gardens of guest iris. Wandering around the venue, it was a wonderful morning, with lively chickens scratching for crumbs at your feet. The guest gardens were in big circles, so it was easy to walk around, but there was quite the crowd around them, so sometimes you had to jockey for positions.

Next up was Tina and Daughters Iris Gardens. It was a phenomenal display of iris!

Everything was clearly labeled and there were very little weeds in the gardens. The hosting society really worked hard! The guest irises were spread out a little more, so we could wander the rows. I took lots of pictures, everything was so nicely in bloom!

Muriel's Garden

Day 3 was first a stop at Muriel's Garden, again, a beautiful display of gardens, with rows and rows of gorgeous blooms. There were two irises that she had, that we had lost in our garden and hope to get them from her soon! Next, we went to ZooMontana, where there was a long row of guest iris near the children's garden. Again, a very beautiful display of iris. This was also a chance to have a judge's training session. While that went on, my husband and I wondered around the zoo. It had wonderful gardens throughout.

The last day of the convention dawned bright and sunny, as had all the days so far. We went to two private gardens in the morning, one of them at an apartment complex that the owners had allowed the tenants to build a large garden, loaded with iris. The next garden, there was very little lawn, it was all garden! There was a wonderful display of guest iris in the front yard, and the sides and back of the house were loaded with iris and other perennials. I saw "Don't Doubt Dalton" in bloom, the 2023 Dykes Medal winner. I also saw a beautiful pink delphinium, which the owner said she had gotten at Walmart!

That afternoon, we went to Eagle Ridge Gardens, an astounding 9-acre garden. It was wonderful! Just seeing all those irises in bloom, amazing! It was a sight to see. The guest irises were in full bloom along with almost every other iris in the garden. It was a great way to end the garden tours.

At the awards banquet, quite a few of my favorite iris were winners, I was happy to see. And the other award winners were deserving of their prizes.

And then for the journey home. It always seems longer driving home, especially with the time change going against you. But we did have a few stops, such as Wall Drug, in Wall, SD and the Spam Museum in Austin MN.

All in all, a wonderful and memorable trip!

Siberian Iris Convention – First-Time Reflections

By Alexander Solla, GRIS

The 2025 Society for Siberian Iris /SIGNA Joint Convention in Ames, Iowa, was a glorious study in contrasts. As this was my first iris convention, I had no idea what to expect. Coming from Upstate New York, where the seasons had only recently begun to creep into spring, the weather in Iowa was quite a shock. Apparently, Ames had already experienced multiple days above 90°F and was actually experiencing a cold spell during the convention.

The first stop on the whirlwind tour of Ames was a visit to the garden of Kris and Tom Jurik. Tucked in at the end of the neighborhood, there is nothing to suggest the treasure of a garden that lies beyond the roadside hedges. Once into the garden proper, I struggled to take in the expansive plantings of hostas (many hundreds of varieties) amidst a mature grove of tall trees. Beyond the lovely cool plantings, the paths through the garden opened up onto a flat sunny terrace full of bearded irises in full bloom, accompanied by the guest Siberian irises. Guest irises are a major component of conventions since it gives the hybridizers an opportunity to share their newest introductions and seedlings. Everyone lined up with their phones and cameras, oohs and aahs at the ready. Knowing that we would be returning the following day for Judges Training, I made one quick pass through the guest irises, promising to return when the light was favorable for better photographs.

In my opinion, the best-looking irises in the guest iris beds were: 'If Swans Were Blue' (Hollingworth), 'Full of Beans' and 'Spin and Glow' (both from Schaefer and Sacks). Dean Cole's 'Amethyst Frost' was in fantastic form.

Siberian Iris Convention – First-Time Reflections – continued

When I could draw my eyes away from the expansive beds of hostas and the irises, I realized there was a whole part of the garden down the hill that stretched nearly to the river's edge. This space was filled with over a thousand different varieties of peonies. There is no way to convey the awe of being surrounded by such a profusion of bloom. It was a sea of color! Of course, interspersed here and there were large flowing clumps of Siberian irises. Too soon darkness caught up and it was time to return to the hotel.

The next morning our first stop was the garden of Lois and Jack Girton. It is impossible to be prepared for a garden devoted to the collection of Saunders' peonies. It was a living museum, capturing the hybridization efforts of A.P. Saunders and his contributions to the peony world. Filling in the spaces between magnificent herbaceous and woody peonies were wonderful clumps of Siberian irises of all varieties. At every turn, discussions circled around to the effect of planting Siberian irises with other shrubs and peonies and perennials.

The guest irises at the Girton garden were fewer due to limited space. According to the convention brochure, the Girton garden initially had only two guest irises, with the remainder on display having been purchased after they had been introduced. As a result, many were quite small. In the Girton garden, the most impressive irises were: 'Spin and Glow' (Schafer/Sacks), 'Wish Me Luck' (Schafer/Sacks) and 'Sun and Mist' (Schafer/Sacks). Dean Cole's 'Amethyst Frost' had yet to open but was very clearly going to make quite the show in the next week. Seeing so many beautiful mature clumps of irises surrounded by astounding peonies was awe inspiring.

All too soon, we had to hop back on the bus and mosey on to the Iowa Arboretum and Gardens in Madrid, IA. Lunch was enjoyed among the many acres of cultivated gardens, native woodland, and prairie restoration at the Iowa Arboretum and Gardens. The guest irises took center stage upon one's entrance into the arboretum. Due to the extremely hot and dry summers of 2023 and 2024, there were quite a few guest irises here that had died. The most impressive surviving irises were: 'Will You Wear Red' (Schafer/Sacks), 'Spin and Glow' (Schafer/Sacks), 'Full of Beans' (Schafer/Sacks).

Bob Hollingworth's seedling 14V17A1 (now registered as 'Miz Liz') was quite the stunning performer with a profusion of gently ruffled creamy yellow blooms.

Spence. One thing I took away from a side conversation was the value of reviewing the iris in question for multiple years before considering it for introduction. Jan Sacks described how those detailed assessments of each iris under consideration are collected and reviewed.

The evening festivities included the convention banquet and silent auction. This was followed by the presentations of Marty Schafer, Jan Sacks and Patrick Spence, who shared their respective hybridizing efforts. Seeing the plants being considered for introduction was an incredible opportunity to see the editing process necessary in hybridizing. Marty and Jan shared images of their latest irises, including their efforts towards a true orange! Patrick shared his experiences growing and hybridizing the 40-chromosome Siberian irises. After seeing such rich, dark colors, I think most everyone wished they had the ideal growing conditions for them too! Patrick traded hats and admirably performed the duties of auctioneer while taking bids on irises (and peonies!).

One of the things that makes a convention like this so special is the opportunity to meet new people and to ask questions in person. All of the presenters and guests alike were approachable, kind, and generous. As I boarded my flight home, I reflected on the new friends I had met and thought longingly about the next iris convention.

The next stop was back to the Jurik garden for the judges' training session with Jan Sacks, Marty Schafer and Patrick Spence. As a newcomer to growing Siberian irises and the hybridizing process, it was eye-opening to learn what the judges see in a new introduction. Whether it be branching and bud count, or the behavior of foliage after blooms have faded, these aspects need to be taken into account when judging the entire plant. These concerns (and more!) were brought up again during the evening presentations from Marty Schafer, Jan Sacks, and Patrick
